LA CROSSE VISITED BY CLEVER THIEVES

Steal From Garage Opposite the Police Station—Loot Dentist's Office.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 17.—[Special to this Gazette.]—Entering the garage of 15. C. Holway which is located directly across the street from police headquarters, and rifling the desk of all the paper money it contained, amounting to about $50, thieves attempted to cover up their not by setting fire to the desk after stuffing the drawers full of all sorts of combustible material and saturating it with lubricating oil. No attempt was made to secure the silver money or checks. The fire was discovered just before it reached the storeroom where twenty large automobiles and a large quantity of gasoline was stored. It is believed the thieves intended to give the impression that the paper money was destroyed in the flames. Footprints in the dirt at the rear of the garage is the only clue.

Through transoms over the door, thieves entered the dental parlors of Drs. Schaeffle and Hansen and secured a quantity of gold used in dental work. Tomah, Portage and Sparta have been robbed in the same manner recently.

An Insane Man. Stripping off his clothes on the wagon bridge crossing the Mississippi river in full view of a crowd of patrons of the public bath, and shouting that his name was "Bill Bailey" and that he was going to seek a watery grave, a young man jumped into the river below, a distance of nearly fifty feet. Bath house attendants thought it was some clever performance and went to his rescue when he began swimming down stream. Refusing to get into the bath and alternately clinging to it and then letting go the man declared it his intention of drowning.

Declaring that if the would-be rescuers would allow him to drown there he would swim to the other side of the river and accomplish his purpose the man finally caught hold of a tree projecting into the river and held on while boys near the scene brought his clothes to him and he calmly dressed standing in water up above his waist. It is believed the man is insane.

PALMETTO STATE MAY BECOME DRY

COUNTY ELECTIONS TO DECIDE UPON LIQUOR QUESTION.

STRONG FIGHT TO BE WAGED

Liquor and Prohibition Forces Both Working Hard—State-Wide Primaries in Nebraska.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 17.—This state, which has been half "dry" ever since twenty-one of its forty-two counties voted to close the County Dispensaries, and which has had the unusual experience of being completely "dry" for the last two weeks, may become permanently dry, if the prohibition question today, should decide against the reopening of the liquor stores under county supervision.

Today's election is not a general election and the result in each county will affect that county alone and have no effect whatever upon any other county. The opponents of prohibition are hopeful that many of the counties voting on the prohibition question today will decide against prohibition, preferring to return to the County Dispensary system, an outgrowth of the State Dispensary system, inaugurated by former Governor, now Senator Tillman, shortly after his election to prohibition, on the other hand, hope that a large majority of the counties, taking part in today's election, will join the ranks of the "dry" counties, thus eliminating permanently the dispensary system, which has been such a thorn in the flesh of the prohibitionists.

The State Dispensary system, of which Governor Tillman was the father, was in force thirteen years ago, during that time, caused no end of trouble, corruption, riot and bloodshed and came dangerously near precipitating South Carolina into a bloody civil war. The corruption of the State Dispensary officials and various political intrigues were the rocks upon which the system was wrecked and so great became the antagonism to it throughout the state that two years ago the State Dispensary law was killed by a small majority in the legislature after one of the stormiest sessions in its history.

A half dozen of the officers of the State Dispensary, charged with receiving thousands of dollars in rebates from whiskey houses are now at liberty under bonds ranging from $10,000 to $25,000. Since the inauguration of the County Dispensary system there have been no charges of corruption. Differing from saloons the dispensaries under the county system were operated under the control of a county board. The bartender, known as a dispenser, was bonded. Intoxicants were permitted to be sold only in original packages and no liquor was permitted to be consumed on the premises. The dispensaries were opened at sunrise and closed at sundown and every purchaser had to sign a blank for each purchase, giving his name, age and address. Minors and drunkards were not allowed to make purchases. All liquor sold in the dispensaries had to be chemically pure. The sales of liquor in the twenty-seven wet counties approximated $3,000,000 annually, giving a net profit of $700,000 to the counties. The loss of this revenue was the principal argument urged by the anti-prohibitionists during the campaign preceding today's election. No matter, however, how the election may turn out in the various counties, all of them will remain dry for at least two weeks more, that is, until the official result of the election is announced.

State-Wide Primaries in Nebraska. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 17.—Keen interest is manifested in the state-wide primary in Nebraska today, following the platform conventions held by the several parties three weeks ago. Because of the lack of contests for the prominent places on the republican ticket, the public interest centers chiefly in the democratic nominations. The two leading candidates for the democratic nomination for governor are James C. Dalmann, mayor of Omaha, and C. O. Lohbeck, former comptroller of the same city. While the democratic as well as the republican platform remained silent on the liquor question, the candidates realize that the liquor issue is to be the chief one of the coming campaign and both the democratic aspirants for the governorship have declared their stand. Mayor Dalmann has announced his candidacy on a high license ticket, while Mr. Lohbeck has declared himself in favor of county option.

BIG SPECIAL OFFER ENDS
TONIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK

Many Are Taking Advantage of This Great Special Offer—Votes
Are Rolling in—Still Some Hours Left to Gather in a Few Thousand Votes—No Place for Idlers.

Splendid Spirit of Dash and Energy Prevails—Great "Opportunity Week" Exceeding All Expectations.

To night at 8 o'clock The Gazette's special offer of extra votes on new subscriptions is at an end.

The contestants should make every effort to secure at least five new subscriptions to The Gazette so as to gain the extra ballot. There is time to secure these and people are always willing to help those that help themselves.

The proposition of giving extra votes has met with the hearty approval of all candidates as has been indicated by the large amount of business done in the past department yesterday. Contestants entitled to the extra votes will receive same by Saturday. These can be kept as a reserved or voted at once.

Yesterday was another banner day for the many contestants. A good number of subscriptions were received at The Gazette office. At the hours and days left by the interest in The Gazette contest, in which three Newman Bros. planos, three diamond rings, three gold watches, and last but not least, three gold bracelets, are to be given to the winner. Every candidate has done well and will probably do better from now on until the close of the contest.

It will depend largely upon the efforts of the next three weeks as to who will win and who will not.

Don't let this chance slip by. Your competitor will not, you may rest assured, and unless you get every available vote the next three weeks

you may be defeated.

Votes have been rolling up by the thousands, and it is predicted that in another day or two the final result will be in. The time from now on until the close of the contest is very short.

This means that it has become imperative that each interested in the race enter the contest with any hope of winning one of the prizes.

Above all things, do not let rumors influence you in any way. The secrets of this office are not to be given to anyone.

A great many people do not understand, and for their satisfaction we wish to say that no one starting to take the paper since the contest started will always be considered a new subscriber during the life of the contest, and votes given now and pay hereafter during the contest, you will receive the same number of votes

as a new subscriber.

CITY'S NEEDS

Janesville needs two things, among many others, to make it a city of prominence in the state. One is an adequate street railway, with good sanitary cars, good tracks and good times for running, an extension of the present system through different portions of the city it does now reach and improvement all along the line. The common council has instructed the city attorney to begin suit against the present owners to revoke their franchise if they do not conform to their franchise requirements, but will this settle the matter?

City Attorney Maxfield has written Mr. Blabon of Philadelphia, representing the estate that owns the road, relative to the council's orders and has received a reply that Mr. Blabon will come west about September 15th to look into the matter.

Evidently the Blabon estate feels that it is secure in its ownership of Janesville and the street-car line so that a little threat that their franchise may be revoked is amusing to them. Meanwhile Janesville suffers.

Janesville needs a new street-car service. If need be a new ownership of the right to run cars in the city. Extension of the present lines, new cars and everything in the line of equipment new. The citizens should not permit any compromise in the matter; should not listen to any promises made by the owners. Patience has come to be a virtue and radical steps should be taken at once.

Janesville also needs good roads. Aldermen of the city are directly responsible for the roads in their own respective wards. They should see to it that the streets are in good repair and not only that but kept in good repair. In many localities the condition of the streets are worse than no streets at all.

If Janesville was laying traps for unwary automobilists they could not have more humps in the city streets than now exist. Staked gutters, washed-out roadways and corn and weeds growing in low parts of the streets.

As soon as the citizens and the aldermen awake to the necessities of their respective wards then the city will begin to grow. It is a matter of vital importance and one which the residents of Janesville will awake too late to realize unless something is done at once.

NEW BONDS AND THE BANKS

Washington in regard to the issue of new bonds practically follows the recommendation of the Wall Street Journal that the more difficult questions involved should be postponed until the next session of congress. The authority is to be given to the secretary of the treasury to issue approximately $200,000,000 in bonds at a rate of interest not exceeding 3 per cent. It is not contemplated to make any other change of law at present. If bank note circulation is issued upon the new bonds, it will pay the tax of 1 per cent provided by existing law.

Upon its face this looks like a continuation of the policy of a bond secured currency. It is understood, however, that it is not the intention of the secretary of the treasury to avail himself of this authority to issue 3 per cent bonds unless an emergency should require. The object of congress in providing for such an issue is to settle the policy in regard to the Panama canal, but not to pre-judge the question of monetary reconstruction. It will be entirely in the power of congress, when the latter subject is taken up, to provide that no bonds thereafter issued shall be available to secure bank note circulation. If few or none have been issued under the bill now pending, the new issue will not permit the initiation of the bond secured currency or interfere with future plans. In the meantime, treasury needs will probably be met by the issue of one-year certificates, of which the amount authorized will be increased to $200,000,000.

If it should be necessary, owing to pressure in the money market during the crop moving season, to issue a small part of the new loan, it would probably be possible to equalize the difference in the net return on the bonds when used to secure circulation by selling them at a price considerably under 3 per cent. If sold at par at 2.75 per cent, subject to a tax on the circulation of 1 per cent, while the 2 per cents are subject to a tax of only 1/4 of 1 per cent, the advantage to the banks of substituting the new bonds for the old would be reduced to one-quarter of one per cent. Such a calculation, however, is based upon an assumed market price of par for both bonds. It is probable that something more than par could be obtained for the new issue, which would tend still further to bring the two classes of securities to parity for banking purposes. The sale of a small block of bonds under such conditions would probably not have the disturbing effect upon the market for 2 per cents, which would attend a large offer of 3 per cents available for circulation.

The Imperial Band is hired once a week by the Harvard merchants to give a concert on their streets and yet Janesville goes motionless except for the Medicine show and hand-dandy pianos of the picture houses all summer.

It is funny how children can be kidnapped and even the police can find no trace of them. Some way or other it is mysterious how people appear and disappear in this world of civilized communities.

The state fair promises to be great institution this year with Taft as one of the drawing cards, but it is hardly a compliment to parade the fat stock of the show the same day that he is on the grounds.

Taft is certain that he means what he says and those who do not believe it can wait and find out for certain for themselves if they care to monkey with a buzz-saw.

Roosevelt has not been heard from for several days, but it is supposed he is saying "De-lit-ed" every time he hits one of the lions or other African animals.

Evansville is going to keep up the reputation of the county as a fair center even if Janesville can not get ambition enough to organize a fair association.

Chicago is so happy over the peaceful solution of the street-car strike that it will probably indulge in a strike of tenasters or some other class of transportation to celebrate.

Madison is booming ahead because all the business interests of the city are united in making the city a genuine trade center.

Chicago's new chief of police has been sworn into office and has gone to a summer resort to study up what the duties of his office really are.

Summer resorts are beginning to realize that home is the best place to work in even if they are having lots of fun at present.

Janesville appears to be the center of the rain belt this year, or rather the past ten days and predictions show that more is coming.

Crete begins to think that it is a nation all by itself and that Turkey can go to thunder if they do not like things the way they do them.

Tobacco and corn are growing these days and the farmer is waxing rich from the harvest of the near future.

Good roads make business and the sooner the businessmen of the city begin to realize this fact the better off they will be.

The maiden watched by her cottage door for her lover, who came to her side no more. Such stories as this, ROMANCE since the world was AND old, and the maiden for REALITY under all dropped and died, and over their couches the bleak winds sighed; or, peradventure, they lived for years, and washed around unbleeding in tears, leading a life that was sad and strange, like Mary Ann in her Maudslayi Grange. Oh, hundreds of stories like this are found, of maidens poisoned and maidens drowned, or maidens brooding in darkened halls, with tumbling turrets and moldy walls; and ghosts of maidens whose loves broke up, are thick as fleas on a yellow pup. The maiden watched by her cottage door, for her lover, who came to her side no more; and she did not rail, and she did not weep, but gently murmured: "The stuff is off! I've drawn a lemon in my bold knight; for breach of promise I'll catch him tight. So off I'll hie to the court alone, and seek him for many a golden hour!"

A LIVING SAINT.

A living saint is as much a better saint than a dead saint as life is better than death.

Miss Sophie Wright of New Orleans is a living saint—"St. Sophie" they call her.

Miss Wright was born with a species of epilepsy that has made her a cripple for life. Every step she takes is torture, and although she is a young woman in years her sufferings have turned her hair snow white. Her parents were poor and barely were able to support her through high school.

A life cripple, poor, without friends, how could she earn a living? She began teaching school. That was twenty-five years ago when such a thing as a night school was unknown in New Orleans.

One night a young man, a stranded circus neophyte, came to her and said he could get a good job if only he could read and write. Would she not teach him?

She did, and that was the beginning of her night school. One by one the pupils came for free instruction until she was crowded out of her little home into larger quarters.

Today as the outcome of Sophie Wright's self-sacrificing labors the night schools of New Orleans instruct 2,000 pupils, and some of the leading citizens have been educated in these schools.

Miss Wright started a private school for girls which is very successful. She makes her living by teaching in this school all day and gives her evenings to "her boys" in the night schools.

This crippled woman has built a home for crippled children. She is the main support of the Home for Convalescents and scores of other charities.

Every year the Pienyuna, a newspaper, gives a loving cup to that citizen who has done the greatest public good for the city during the year. Several years ago Miss Wright was awarded the cup. It was a check for $10,000, subscribed by the people of New Orleans to cancel a debt she had assumed in making room for her night schools.

Is it strange they should call her "St. Sophie" or that she is also known to the people as "the best citizen of New Orleans?"

She has effectively answered the age-long query respecting woman, "What can she do?" She is of that noble company of women who are coming into their own in this our day.

Sophie Wright, "leading citizen" of New Orleans.

And there are others—plenty of them.

Why Yankee Bread is Baked in Steam

Yeast continues to ferment until the bread is baked in a heat of 212 degrees.

Your kitchen stove has a maximum temperature of 200 degrees while the centre of the loaf rarely exceeds 100 degrees.

And it is dry heat.

Such heat crisps the crust and then cannot penetrate the center of the loaf. The crust keeps out the heat but retains the moisture.

Thus while your loaf is damp the center is only half baked.

The yeast cells continue to ferment in the stomach and cause indigestion.

But our steam keeps the crust moist until the inside is fully baked. Then we turn off the steam and let the bread come slowly to a rich brown crust.

That's why Yankee Bread is so delicious—every yeast cell is killed and it has a delightful flavor that is simply enticing.

Try a loaf tomorrow, from your grocer or our wagon which passes your house each day. Price 5c the loaf.

MET FRIGHTFUL END AT CANNING PLANT

Hugh Murray Was Crushed to Death on Deck of Elevator Shortly Before Six Last Evening

When one of the employees of the Peter Mohrhead, Jr. canning factory had brought the elevator down to the first floor and was starting up again with a load just before six o'clock last evening, he was suddenly startled by the sight of a human hand and arm hanging limply from the upper deck of the lift and fastened on the stairway to the next floor to make an investigation. What he found confirmed his belief. The body of one of his fellow workmen, Hugh Murray, lay upon the deck, with the skull crushed in two places and terrible bruises about the shoulders. Life had evidently been extinct for several minutes. The ambulance and physicians were called to the scene and District Attorney Fisher and Chief Deputy were notified. All the circumstances surrounding the tragedy pointed to accidental death and after a careful inspection of the premises, the officers ordered the remains conveyed to Kimball's undertaking rooms.

As no one witnessed the accident, the exact manner in which it occurred can only be a matter of conjecture. Murray was in charge of a gunge which was placed in the second floor. The elevator is operated by a youth employed at that Murray was not familiar with its workings. Indeed, the accident is explainable only on the theory that, with the intention of descending to the lower floor, he got aboard the upper deck which closes the shaft when the lift is on the lower floor, and pulled down on the cable. The elevator, of course, started up instead of down and not knowing how to stop or reverse it, the passenger must have lost his presence of mind. There were positions on the deck where he might have stood upright and escaped injury until the apparatus automatically stopped in the "pent house," but he was either too busy with the rigging or too unfortunally, in the brief interval allotted him, to catch chance to save himself. By contact with one of these, diagonal cross-timbers near the top of the shaft, which apparently caught him across the shoulders, he was thrown violently to the floor, his head jammed in between the edge of the deck and the rafters, and his life crushed out in an instant.

Mr. Murray was a man of short stature, with sandy mustache and hair turning grey. He was about fifty years of age and had been engaged in various occupations in this vicinity for some time, winning the high regard of all employers and associates by his patience, industry, and good habits. For three years he was city marshal at Rockton; thereafter he worked in a glue factory in Rockton. He had labored on a farm and worked for a railroad company. About a year ago he was employed by the Rock County Sugar Co. More recently he had worked in the canning factories both at Rockton and Janesville, acting as superintendent of the latter plant during the season. After this season closed he laid off for a time and had only yesterday commenced work in the factory again.

Two sisters, Mrs. Louise Gary and Mrs. Orsola, live in Beloit and it is said that there are also two sisters living in Rockton. One of the latter is a Mrs. Dewey.

WIRE CODE RATES HAVE BEEN RAISED

Many Local Manufacturers Will Be Interested in Latest Ruling of Telegraph Companies.

An increase in the rates of code messages has been announced by both the Western and Postal Telegraph companies to take effect on September first. The new schedule is aimed at cipher messages, many of which are sent and received by the local manufacturers. Within the past few years the code system has become common throughout the country. General use of the code system, the companies argue, has had a tendency to complicate traffic.

By the terms of the decision, cipher messages will be charged at the rate of five letters to the word, instead of ten letters, unless the telegram is built on words which appear in the dictionary. Domestic messages only are affected by the new rule, cable ciphers escaping the increase.

The announcements issued by both companies are similar in text. Following is the notice of the Western Union company:

"Please note that commencing Sept. 1, 1909, all groups of letters, whether pronounceable or not, when such groups are not dictionary words and are not combinations of dictionary words, will in domestic messages be counted at the rate of five letters to the word, instead of ten letters as at present. Figures, decimal points and bars of division will be counted, each separately, as one word."

"This change is necessitated by the growing use of artificial words in code messages and the abnormally heavy cost of handling such words. Adopted originally to cover occasional artificial words which had inadvertently been incorporated in commercial or private codes, advantage has been taken of the 'pronounceable' rule by code-makers to construct codes based wholly upon purely arbitrary groups of letters, two or more of which groups are in themselves combined in one ten-letter word. The combinations are extremely difficult of correct telegraphic transmission and at the present count and rates are handled at a loss."

The change affects only words of this class, and dictionary words employed in code messages will continue to be counted such as one word. Incidentally, the rule for counting each letter a word in arbitrary pronounceable combinations is abolished. The rules for counting of cable messages are governed by international agreement and are unchanged. Yours truly, F. V. Mott, office manager."

BRIDGE WASHED OUT IN TOWN OF TURTLE

High Water Swept Away Structure on Clinton Road Near Chapman Farm on Sunday

High water in Turtle Creek washed out one of the abutments of the iron bridge near the Chapman farm on the Milwaukee or Clinton road leading from Beloit and the structure fell with a crash Sunday morning about seven o'clock. Luckily there was no one on the bridge at the time, otherwise their chance of escape would have been few as the iron works was so bent and twisted as to be practically of no use. The bridge itself was carried about forty feet down stream. The bridge is on a much-travelled road and has been in use a long time. It was ninety feet long, of one span, and was sixteen feet wide. To replace it will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $3,000, the county bearing one-half of the expense of replacing it. The other half of the cost will have to be borne by the taxpayers of the town of Turtle, in which the structure was situated. The town supervisors of Turtle, W. W. Swingle, J. H. Walker, and William Reimer have conferred concerning the matter, and a town meeting, to vote to issue bonds for a new bridge, will no doubt be called.

BUSINESS MEN WILL MAKE STRONG STAND

Petition Circulated Asking That Y. M. C. A. Directors Retain Mr. Birch as Physical Director.

Businessmen who have been members of the Y. M. C. A. classes for the past year at the Y. M. C. A. and parents of children who have been in the junior classes of the institution are this afternoon passing a petition asking that they make a new contract with E. E. Birch, who has been physical director of the institution for the past year.

It was learned this morning that the directors had offered Mr. Birch a place from month to month, with no contract and no increase in pay and that he could not accept such an offer, but would stay if given a year's contract with increased salary.

As soon as this fact was made public men who have been members of the classes this past winter immediately began circulating a petition asking the board of directors to make a contract with Mr. Birch for another year. The feeling is so strong among the businessmen that many have offered to be among those who will make up a purse to make up any deficiency in the salary question.

During the past year the junior classes which before Mr. Birch's arrival here numbered but sixty, had increased to over two hundred and the work done by the boys of this branch of the association has been most commendable. He has not only interested them but also been a companion, friend and teacher all in one.

Parents of the boys who have been under him are an enthusiastic over his retention as are the businessmen who have met him daily. On every side expressions are heard that it is hoped the directors will not make the mistake of letting him go at this time.

One prominent citizen said this afternoon: "I know positively that Mr. Birch was personally responsible for a gift of $5,000 to the Y. M. C. A. made by a prominent citizen whose name I am not at liberty to disclose. The fact that this sum has been left to the association is also a fact, but I feel that the public should know that it was through the work done by Mr. Birch for the young boys of the city that this princely gift was made."

From another source it is learned that last winter a swimming tank or a substantial sum for the erection of one, was offered Mr. Birch by a leading lady resident of the city for the same reason. Nothing definite was done in the matter at that time and the matter is still in abeyance.

The three members of the Y. M. C. A. directors who have the selection of the physical director are J. C. Kling, Dr. Richards, and P. P. Lewis. If Mr. Birch is to be retained in Janesville it is these three men who will decide the matter.

This noon Mr. Heddles' condition was reported to be just about the same, with the physicians holding out some hope for his ultimate recovery. The many friends of the young man and his family will eagerly await more reassuring tidings from his bedside.

COLLECTION FAKIR WANTED BY POLICE

Claimed to Represent Collection Agency and Managed to Get Some Funds in City.

Warrants are out for the arrest of G. N. Salisbury of Chicago, a dark complexioned individual of slight stature, clean shaven, with sharp nose and eyes, and about 28 years of age, who blew into this city last Friday night and out again Saturday evening without paying his board bill at the Grand hotel. Mr. Salisbury is wanted here particularly on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, representing himself as an agent of the American Claims Buyers' Union, 306 Hodges building, Detroit, Mich., which was established on his stationery as a department of R. G. Day & Co. rating bureau, he visited the offices of Dr. V. D. Merritt and other physicians, and professional and business men, after stating that he had the rating of every person in the city offered to them for a cash offer, Mr. Salisbury would take a list of some of these names, promising to return after hours later and submit his offer. In Dr. Merritt's case he offered something like $98 for about $137 worth of these accounts, promising to bring the money back in a very few hours. Mr. Salisbury wanted to make arrangements to have some of his accounts collected and at the request of Dr. Merritt called upon Salisbury at the Grand hotel about five o'clock in the afternoon. The latter had just been down on Holmes street, collected $5 from a family, and given a receipt purporting to be signed by Dr. Merritt. Upon hearing that Dr. Merritt wanted him, he evidently jumped to the conclusion that his methods had been uncovered. For, without waiting to answer the phone, he made some excuse and darted out the door with his satchel. Nor has he since been seen hereabouts, though it is believed that he has been operating in Milton Junction since that time.

Girdling the Globe: Harold J. Murphy and William C. Kruger, a pair of Chicago boys who were sent eastward to girdle the world in a race against time, with two other boys, moving westward, arrived here at 1:45 today on a special train made up at St. Paul. It made the distance from Elroy, 129 miles, in three hours and six minutes and was scheduled to make Chicago from here—91 miles—in one hour and fifty minutes. They completed the journey of 25,000 miles in forty-one days and one or two hours. Trainmaster Vilas of Baraboo brought the train to this point, and Trainmaster S. A. Morrison of Chicago took it from this point.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

SENTIMENT and money matters get along together about one-tenth as well as oil and water.

So don't try to mix them.

If you are making a business arrangement with the closest friend you have on earth, the forms of business procedure should be observed as rigidly as if it were for someone you had never met before.

I think that any business arrangement should always be a written and signed contract, though it is between David and Jonathan, or husband and wife.

Indeed, I might almost say, the closer the bond, the more need of care. For in such cases you are safeguarding your friendship or love as well as money.

A misunderstanding between friends entails far more suffering than one between acquaintances. For "to be wroth with one we love works madness in the brain."

Men are sometimes careless in this way but women are especially apt to resent business forms between friends and consider them an insult to love and friendship.

One woman who formerly felt that way, came to me with her troubles the other day, asking that I would let her experience touch some one else a lesson.

She was a seamstress and had boarded for several years at the home of a married sister. The home needed repairs and the seamstress offered to take her savings out of the bank to make these repairs. She did so. Four hundred hundred dollars went to make the home more comfortable. No papers whatever were executed. There was simply an understanding that for the rest of her life she should be allowed to make the renovated house her home.

A year later her sister died. Her brother-in-law shortly after this began to make things unpleasant for her, finally ordering her to leave the house, serving a writ on her when she refused.

She sued him but only recovered four hundred dollars, of which a very comfortable share went to the lawyer.

Think of the needle-pricked fingers, the toll-round shoulders, the million upon million of stitches on "seam and gusset and band!" that lost one thousand dollars meant.

And such a very needless loss.

Another woman loaned several large sums of money to her son to put into a business venture. She took no notes and no entries were made on the books. "He is my son and I can trust him," she said when someone criticized this. Later he failed. Although his mother was by far his largest creditor, she could get nothing until his other creditors, who had their claims in writing, had been satisfied. And when that time came, there was nothing left.

It was through no dishonesty on his part, it was simply one of the many cases where allowing sentiment to interfere with proper business procedure proved disastrous.

There is nothing so dangerous, wrongly-used, and no such protection rightly used, as the power of the written word.

CHAPTER XXIX.

A PRESCRIBED MALADY.

"YOU are wonderful, staying out there all night watching for me." He was about to say "me."

"How could any one sleep? No one found this dress for me. Aren't these baggy trousers funny? She filled the late Mr. Wyckholme's wardrobe. This costume once adorned a sultana, I'm told. I wore it tonight because I was much less conspicuous as a sultana than I might have been had I gone to the wall as a princess."

"I like you best as the princess," he said, frankly surveying her in the gray light.

"I think I like myself as the princess, too," she said naively. He sighed deeply. They were quite close to the excited group on the terrace when she said: "I am very, very happy now, after the most miserable night I have ever known. I was so troubled and afraid."

"Just because I went away for that little while? Don't forget that I am soon to go out from you for all time. How then?"

"Ah, but then I will have Paris," she cried gayly. He was puzzled by her mood—but then, why not? What could he be expected to know of the moods of royal princesses? No more than he could know of their loves.

Lady Deppingham was not to be at once. The princess, more thrilled by excitement than she ever had been in her life, attended her friend, in the sanctity of her chamber the exhausted young Englishwoman bared her soul to this wise, sympathetic young woman in Persian vestment.

"Genevra," she said solemnly in the end, "take warning from my example. When you once are married don't trifle with other men—not even if you should not love your husband. Sooner or later you'll get tripped up. It doesn't pay, my dear. I never realized until tonight how much I really care for Deppy, and I am horribly afraid that I've lost something I can never recover."

"You were not in love with Mr. Browne. That is why I can't understand you, Agnes."

"My dear, I don't understand myself. How can I expect you or my husband to understand me? How could I expect it of Bobby Browne? Genevra, you are in love—madly in love—with Hollingsworth Chase. Take my advice, marry him. He's one man in a million. Genevra placed her hand over the lips of the feverish young woman.

"I will not listen to anything more about Mr. Chase," she said firmly. "I am tired—tired to death of being told that I should marry him."

"But you love him," Lady Agnes managed to mumble despite the gentle impediment.

"I do love him—yes, I do love him," cried the princess, casting reserve to the winds. "He knows it—every one knows it. But marry him? No—no! I shall marry Karl. My father, my mother, my grandfather, have said so, and I have said it too. That ends it, Agnes. Don't speak of it again!"

She cast herself down upon the side of the bed and clutched her hands in the fierceness of despair and decision.

After a moment Lady Agnes said dreamily: "I climbed up the ladder to make a 'ladyship' of myself by marriage, and I find I love my husband. I dare say if you should go down the ladder a few rounds, my dear, you might be no luckier. But take my advice. If you won't marry Hollingsworth Chase, don't let him come to Paris."

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Janesville People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, diabetes, urinary troubles, dropsy, indigestion and Bright's disease follow in remorseless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Janesville.

Mrs. Minnie Mohan, 144 N. Academy St., Janesville, Wis., says: "About two years ago I suffered from an attack of kidney trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I procured a supply at the People's Drug Co. and after taking them a short time was cured. I have had no recurrence of kidney complaint since. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with satisfactory results and from these experiences I know them to be a reliable kidney remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

with decision in his voice:

"Chase, you may tell your clients that, so far as I am concerned, they may have the benchy island and everything that goes with it. I'm through with it all. I shall discharge Britt and—"

"My dear boy, it's most magnificent of you," cried Chase merrily. "But I'm afraid you can't decide the question in such an offhand manner. Take good care of him, Mrs. Browne. Don't let him talk."

She held out her hand to him impulsively. As he gallantly lifted the cold fingers to his lips she said, without taking her almost hungry gaze from his face: "Thank you, Mr. Chase. I shall never forget you."

He stood there looking after them as they went up the staircase, a puzzled expression in his face.

"I guess he'll be a good boy from now on," but he wondered what it was that he had seen or felt in her somber gaze.

In fifteen minutes he was sound asleep in his room, his long frame relaxed, his hands wide open in utter fatigue. He dreamed of a Hesperid girl with Genevra's brilliant face instead of the vague, greenish features that haunted the vision with their sinister mysticism.

He was awakened at noon by Selma, who obeyed his instructions to the minute. The eager Arab rubbed the soreness and stiffness out of his master's body with copious applications of alcohol.

"I'm sorry you awoke me, Selma," said the master enigmatically. Selma drew back, dismayed. "You drove her away," Selma's eyes blinked with bewilderment. "I'm afraid she'll never come back."

"Excellent!" trembled on the lips of the mystified servant.

"Ah, me!" sighed the master resignedly. "She smiled so divinely. Hesperid girls never smile, do they, Selma? Have you noticed that they are always pensive? Perhaps you haven't. It doesn't matter. But this one smiled. I say, coming back to earth, have they begun to distill the water? I've got a frightful thirst."

"Yes, excellency. The Sultana Browne is at work. One of the servants became sick today. Now no one is drinking the water. Billie is bringing in tea from the storehouse and melting it, but the supply is not large. Excellency, you will take Selma to live with you in Paris?" he said after a while wistfully. "I will be your slave."

"Parlo? Who the dickens said anything about Paris?" demanded Chase, startled.

"Nonsense says you will go there to live, excellency. Does not the most glorious princess live in Paris?"

"Selma, you've been listening to gossip. It's a frightful habit to get into. Put cotton in your ears. But if I were to take you, what would become of little Neneh?"

"Oh, Neneh?" said Selma easily. "If she would be a trouble to you, excellency, I can sell her to a man I know."

Chase looked blackly at the eager Arab, who quailed.

"You miserable dog!" Selma gasped. "Excellent!"

"Don't you love her?"

"Yes, yes, sultana—yes! But if she would be a trouble to you—not!" protested the Arab anxiously. Chase laughed as he came to appreciate the sacrifice his servant would make for him.

"I'll take you with me, Selma, where ever I go—and if I go—but, my lad, you'll take Neneh along, too, to save trouble. She's not for sale, my good Selma." The husband of Neneh radiated joy.

"Then she may yet be the slave of the most glorious princess! Allah is great! The most glorious one has asked her if she will not come with her."

"Selma," commanded the master ominously, "don't repeat the gossip you pick up when I'm not around."

CAR SCARCITY NOW FEARED

GOVERNMENT AND RAILROAD OFFICIALS SEE DANGER TO CROP MOVEMENT.

EXPECTING A BANNER YEAR

Enormous Products of the Soil May Find Transportation Facilities Inadequate Though Improvements Have Been Made.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Chairman Knapp of the Interstate commission believes the railroads of the United States this year will have the greatest business they ever have had to handle.

The serious situation anticipated not only by Judge Knapp, but by other officials of the commission, and by operating railroad men generally, is that there may be a shortage of cars.

May Exceed Their Capacity.

The crop prospects are considered so bright that the likelihood in the railroads and other transportation companies may be taxed beyond their capacity to handle the freight that will be offered to them.

Already, according to figures submitted to the Interstate Commerce commission, the railroads, in considerable number, have recovered from the low business pressure of a year and a half ago, and now are handling almost as much traffic as they handled in the rush months of 1927, which was the banner year in American railroading.

In the view of Chairman Knapp, the carriers are now in better position to carry the freight offered than they were in 1927, and he said it would not surprise him if that year's record were broken this year.

Expects Red-Letter Period.

"The railroads learned a good lesson in 1927," said Chairman Knapp. "Then they were absolutely unable to handle promptly the traffic that was offered to them. Since that time they have added materially to their equipment, have improved their roadbeds and in every respect, have increased their facilities. I do not doubt that this year will be a red-letter period for them and for the country."

Generally it is expected, however, that a shortage of cars will result this fall from the increased business of the carriers and some embarrassment by shippers may be looked for as a consequence.

QUESTIONS FOR BANK CASHIERS.

Comptroller Murray Wants Data for the Monetary Commission.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Cashiers of every state and private bank in the country have been requested in a circular letter sent out by Comptroller of the Currency Murray to furnish information regarding the character of deposits, number of depositors, average rate of interest paid, and minimum amount of deposit on which interest is allowed, as shown by the bank records at the close of business on June 30 last.

The data is desired for the use of the national monetary commission in connection with the report submitted to that body recently by the various banks with respect to the resources and liabilities of such institutions on April 28 last. The comptroller says the information will be regarded as "confidential."

BOUNDS PRAISE OF NORTHWEST.

Gov. Hughes of New York Talks of Country's Advancement.

Saratoga Inn, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Gov. Hughes returned to his summer camp after his trip to the Seattle exposition. Of the exposition he said:

"It is compact and well arranged and is very easily seen to advantage. To me the conspicuous features are the Alaskan exhibit and the forestry exhibition. The managers cannot speak too highly of New York's representation."

"We do not realize the possibilities of the northwestern country," he continued, "and the beauty is that while it is rapidly developing on either side of the lines, there is no unfriendliness attending its advancement."

KICKS CAT; SUED FOR $100,000.

Woman Claims Man's Cruelty to Feline Spoiled Her Beauty.

New York, Aug. 17.—Ernest W. Smalley, New York manager for a glove manufacturing firm, has been sued for $100,000 by Emily Jones, his cook, because, it is charged, he kicked the cat through a window screen. His small daughter had complained that the cat scratched her.

The cook says her eyes were filled with a shower of particles of rusty wire as the cat forcibly disappeared and she estimates the damage to her sight and her lessened chances of matrimony at $100,000.

Irish Catholic Benevolent Union.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 17.—The thirty-seventh convention of the Irish Catholic Benevolent union of the United States and Canada opened here today in St. Nicholas parish hall after the celebration of mass. Daniel Duffy of Pottsville, Pa., the president, was in the chair and delegates from nearly all local societies were in attendance.

Day Arrested as "Wrecker."

South Haven, Mich., Aug. 17.—Richard Phelps, aged 13 years, son of a Chicago railroad man, was arrested at Covert, charged with four attempts to wreck trains on the Fruit Belt railway.

Every advertiser ought to be interested in knowing how many copies of their paper he spends his money in are circulated. The Gazette prints its circulation daily at the top of page 1.

Why Men Refuse to Teach.

The teacher may have a personality that commands respect in spite of his calling, but outside of his especial work he is regarded by business men slightly as an "improvident visionary."—Educational Review.

Efficiency for Bell.

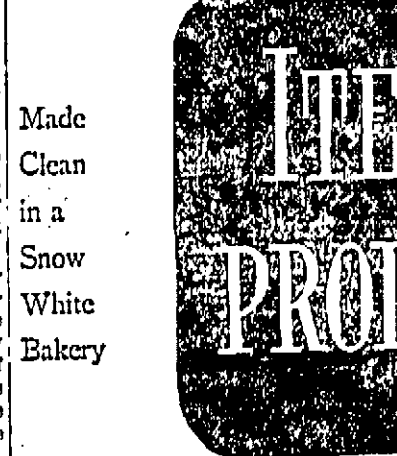

In the beginning of a week bell a good thing is a pure grain alcohol poultry made by cooking a marble size wad of surgeon's cotton in alcohol and keeping it on wet all night with a bandage.

Business Is Business.

The judgment of Solomon is out of date. A woman who gave away her child in infancy and desired to get it back is repulsed by the courts, not even getting an offer of half of it. A bargain is a bargain in these material days.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Bearing the Bell" in England.

To "bear the bell" is a phrase derived from the custom of giving a bell as the prize at running matches in England. A little golden bell was given at York, England, as a reward of victory, in 1607.

FIGHT INDIANA RAIL LAW.

Big Four Carries Case to the Supreme Court.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The constitutionality of the state law of Indiana requiring passenger trains to be equipped with crews of five men and freight trains with crews of six men, is called into question in the case of the state of Indiana against the "Big Four" Railroad Company, docketed in the supreme court of the United States.

The company contends that the law interferes with interstate commerce and that it is therefore in contravention of the federal constitution. The supreme court of Indiana upheld the statute.

BOY OF 14 CONFESSES MURDER.

Clears Mystery Surrounding Slaying of Steplather in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 17.—After four months' silence, Harry Bell, 14 years old, has confessed to Sheriff Grant Kilmer of Indianola, Ia., that on March 2 last he murdered his stepfather, E. J. Carragher, at the latter's home, three miles east of New Virginia.

The confession was secured by George Brand, who three months after Carragher's death married the latter's widow. The only witness of the deed was Bell's younger brother, who has since died.

Snatches Two from Death.

Wellington, O., Aug. 17.—Snatching two little children from the jaws of death, Charles Carpenter, fireman on a Detroit, Toledo & Ironton switch engine, proved himself a hero. As the engine sped along the rails Carpenter noticed Pearl and Anthony Bourdes, two and three years old, respectively, innocently playing in the middle of the track. Carpenter dashed out on the running board, and leaning far out from the pilot, at the risk of his own life, caught the little tots in his arms.

Invitation for J. J. Hill.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor has invited James J. Hill, chairman of the board of the Great Northern railroad, to act as one of the government's agents in the entertainment of the 30 or more representatives of Japanese chambers of commerce who will visit this country in September.

Not Without Hope.

A man may be absolutely impossible, but somewhere there is some woman who doesn't think so.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Photographic. If a man wants a word picture of himself that isn't at all flattering, he should arouse the ire of a sharp-tongued woman.—Chicago Daily News.
